AN ODD CORPORATION.

WHAT MRS. MARY TYLER DID TO SAVE HER HEIRS TROUBLE.She Transferred Nearly All Her Property to an Incorporated Organization Called "The Tyler Estate"—Real Estate in Several Cities.Among the property items which the city is trying to acquire title to for the proposed Ninth regiment armory, in fourteenth street is a lot belonging to the Tyler estate. The Tyler estate is a novelty among the corporations of the country. It is not the estate of a deceased person, as one would naturally infer from the title, but is the estate of a wealthy western widow, who has had her real estate holdings capitalized and a stock company formed to take and hold the titles to it. Her object is said to be to so arrange the titles to her property that when she comes to dispose of it by her will there will be the least possible opportunity left to disappointed relatives to contest her will and drag her name and private history into the courts and before the public.The certificate of incorporation of the estate recites that it was organized under the laws of Missouri as a corporation for manufacturing and business purposes, and is called "The Tyler Estate."
It was organized under the legal advice and direction of Henry Hitchcock, of the St. Louis bar, a lawyer of that western city, who is said to have assured his client that the laws of Missouri authorized the organization and formal incorporation of real estate corporations.The founder and principal proprietor of the Tyler estate is Mrs. Mary Lawrence Tyler, widow of Robert Tyler, of Louisville. She is said to be worth several millions, principally in lands and property in this city, Philadelphia, Louisville, St. Louis and other places, all of which, however, she has conveyed to the Tyler estate, taking the stock of the peculiar corporation in payment. The estate is capitalized at $300,000, but that does not begin to represent the actual value of the property it owns.THE LAW IN SEVERAL STATES.
The real estate records of this county show the transfer of two pieces of property to the estate by Mrs. Tyler in February, 1889, the time when the corporation was formed. One of the items is the lot in fourteenth street, which is wanted by the city for armory purposes, and the other is a business building and lot in Crosby street, between Broome and Spring streets. The city authorities and the representatives of the estate could not agree upon the price to be paid by the city for the fourteenth street lot and condemnation proceedings have therefore been begun, wherein the price will be fixed by a commission.But the principal interest in the affair attaches to the corporation itself. Many devices have been resorted to in times past by wealthy people who had large estates to dispose of by will to prevent the quarreling of heirs over the manner in which the property has been distributed by the owner in his or her will, but this is the first instance ever heard of in which a private person, having no desire or intention of going into business, where some occasion for forming a limited liability corporation might exist, has voluntarily had her property capitalized and represented in stocks and bonds.In some of the states corporations for the purpose of holding titles to real estates are prohibited by law. New York is said to be one of these states and Illinois another. But they are apparently sanctioned by the laws of Missouri, and the laws of this state permit the holding of title to real estate by any corporation organized under the laws of any other state, the laws of which authorize the existence of a corporation for the purpose stated.HOW THE SCHEME MAY WORK.
Who the present officers of the Tyler estate are could not be ascertained, nor any statement regarding the details of the organization—whether the corporation has more than one executive officer, how the property is managed by the officers, or in what manner transfers of real estate belonging to such a corporation could be made so as not to affect the value of its shares or to impair the security of the bonds. How long a life such a corporation could have is a question, furthermore, which no lawyer could answer offhand.But it is claimed for it that the property can in this manner be held together for long periods of years, whereas, under ordinary conditions, no sooner is a wealthy person's will filed for probate than a long contest begins in the courts between the various heirs over the manner of its distribution among them.
By incorporating, as Mrs. Tyler has done, it is declared that all trouble of this character is done away with. The testatrix wills not her property, but a certain number of shares of her estate to each heir, who is limited by his opportunities to either accept or reject them. This, however, still leaves the contesting heirs opportunities to fight over the distribution of the shares.But Mrs. Tyler expects to get the better of this class of heirs by giving away the shares to the persons she desires to have them before her demise. The corporation, as said, is a novel one, but, like the trust, may prove to be only the forerunner of many which will be organized as soon as the legal status of the Tyler estate shall have been passed upon by some competent legal tribunal.—New York Times.

She Mined the Gold Herself.

Miss Edith J. Hutchinson went from Farmington to Madison one day recently with a piece of gold which she took from the mines at Swift river with her own hands, and had it inserted into the cavity of a tooth. The doctor who performed the operation says he believes Miss Hutchinson is the only lady in the land having a gold filling a part of which she took from the mines with her own hands.—Bangor Commercial.The Two Meridians.
The Geographical congress held in Switzerland recommended the universal adoption of the metric system and also the Greenwich meridian for the reckoning of longitude and time. It is doubtful if this will be done, however, by all nations, for, although a standard in both cases would be beneficial to the world at large, France naturally desires Paris time, and England would never surrender her prime meridian and adopt a revolution in her system of measurements unless the new measure was examined and based upon intrinsic merit.

THE STATE ASSESSORS ACT.

The Virginia City Enterprise, which advocated the passage of the State Board of Assessors and Equalization Act, and defended it until public indignation against it was at its height, when, doubtless, deeming discretion the better part of valor, it had nothing to say on the subject, has again found courage to defend the measure. In yesterday's issue it says:

"Some of the State papers that were deceived by falsehoods in relation to the equalization law and the Board are now showing their courage of conviction and honesty of purpose by giving credit where credit is due. The motives for the original opposition were almost purely political animosity: the opponents saw a chance to attack the Republican party through one of its acts, and omitted no plea by which they might arouse antagonistic or jealous feelings among the people. Joined eventually by every disappointed politician, and by many who thoughtlessly believed there was something wrong because the noise was so great, they were encouraged by their own din until some of them seemed to think they were to ride into power over the ruins of the law."

The Enterprise, it will be observed, claims the Act as a Republican measure and charges that political animosity was the underlying cause of the opposition to the bill. This is as bad as our contemporary's assertion one day that the Democratic press only cast suspicion upon the Act and those appointed to carry out its provisions, and a few days later, when the storm of public opinion was at its height, claiming that it opposed the bill throughout.

The Enterprise, for some reason, persists in asserting that only disappointed politicians are opposed to the bill, though the Governor publicly proclaims that he was against the assessors feature of it from its inception. It defends the Act too on purely political grounds, though every candid person in the State, who believes in fair play, admits that no three men, however upright and incorruptible they may be, should have authority to place a valuation on property which they never saw, and of which they know nothing except what information they derive from prejudiced persons, whose names they withhold from the public.

The fact that railroads may be assessed proportionately higher or lower than other property, should not be considered in the discussion of the Act. The Board, after two weeks or more deliberation, assessed the Central Pacific Railroad at $14,000 per mile. Then the Enterprise commended the act of the Board, as it also did when the Board made a horizontal raise in the valuation of property, other than railroads, and notified hundreds of property holders throughout the State of individual raises, though much of the property of those individuals had never been seen by the Board nor by any of its members. Now, the Board, unable to stem the tide of public dissatisfaction, and possibly to show the absurdity of the Act, abandons the proposition to raise individuals, reduces the horizontal raise on individual property and adds a horizontal raise to its own valuation of railroads, and yet the Enterprise indorses its action. When a newspaper is so prejudiced and one-sided as the Enterprise and endorses every act of its partisans, however inconsistent, it deceives only itself when it imagines that it is deceiving its readers.

The Dakota courts are creating surprises in the divorce business. The laws are so liberal that a husband or wife can get released from the matrimonial yoke without publicity or even the knowledge of the disagreeable partner. Captain L. A. Yorke, late Paymaster in the United States Navy, has just been granted a divorce from his wife, who resides in New Jersey, without even intimating to her that he desired to sever the marriage tie. The Captain immediately married the Countess Evelyn de Zychlinski, who claimed to be the widow of a Russian nobleman, and his first wife, who yet claims to be his legal wife, has commenced proceedings to annul the divorce and prosecute the Captain for bigamy.

Assemblyman Elwood Bruner, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Lower House of the California Legislature, has been indicted by the San Francisco Grand Jury for malfeasance in office and perjury. Bruner is the man who sold positions on the police force in San Francisco for a stated price, he claiming that he was allowed six places on the force for advocating the passage of the bill to increase it. He was arrested and admitted to bail.

Ten thousand farmers, members of the Alliance, participated in a grand demonstration at Salina, Kansas, last Thursday. Congressman Jerry Simpson was orator of the day and the great attraction of the meeting.

The Will Contest.

Special to the Journal.

SALEM, Mass., October 23.—At the opening of the Searles will case this morning Lincoln recalled Searles. Witness testified that at Mrs. Hopkins' request he first called in Mr. Stillman to look up the securities. Witness testified to a visit of Stillman's to Methuen before the last will. Mrs. Searles said she wished to leave all her property to witness and would provide for Timothy in her lifetime. In case anything happened to her she was willing to leave the matter in witness' hands. She knew witness would be more generous to Timothy than she would. Witness testified that during Mrs. Searles' last illness he visited New York, and while in conversation with Mr. Stillman referred to her condition and said if her condition was critical it would be well to transfer the Southern Pacific and improvements to the copartnership, so that in the case of the death of Mrs. Searles it should not lose its voting power. Stillman said that he would attend to it. Witness denied most emphatically that he ever at any time attempted by himself or through others to in any way influence his wife in the disposal of her property. He never noticed anything to show that she was in any other than a strong mental condition.

General Hubbard, of Stillman & Hubbard, testified that his firm was asked to manage Mrs. Searles' property, and in order to do this more effectively a copartnership was made. Five per cent. of the income from the property was less than his professional income, which he was forced to give up when he entered Mrs. Searles' employ. The copartnership was made as the most just and reasonable arrangement. At the afternoon session General Hubbard said that in 1890, when Mrs. Searles' attention was called to the fact that her husband was drawing out more money than she was, she said she wished it so, as Searles paid all her bills and she did not wish to keep a bank account. The witness had never attempted in any manner to influence Mrs. Searles in regard to making her will and never advised keeping matters secret from Timothy Hopkins.

How Americans are Insulted in Chili.

Special to the Journal.

CHICAGO, October 23.—A special from Washington says Captain Schley has asked Secretary Tracy to have Admiral Brown come at once to Valparaiso to aid by his presence in seeing full justice done the cowardly ruffians who murdered a sailor last week.

It is now alleged that the boatswain's mate, Reagan, was shot by a policeman. The dispatch asserts that Minister Egan will demand reparation and the President is said to have said to Tracy: "I mean to have no more of this business from any nation and the demand upon Chili must be peremptory."

There will be four cruisers at Valparaiso when the demand is made.

Captain Schley has informed Secretary Tracy that it has become impossible for American officers to go ashore without being insulted and that hereafter they mean to go armed and resent insults in the proper way. "We are losing our self-respect by permitting these things," says Schley, "and the younger officers are wild with rage and cannot be much longer restrained."

"I don't want them to be further restrained," said Secretary Tracy to one of the Commodores, "and I have told Schley so."

Louisiana Lottery Officials Indicted.

Special to the Journal.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., October 23.—The U. S. Grand Jury has returned eighteen indictments against the officers and directors of the Louisiana Lottery. The evidence was all laid before the jury in the form of affidavits and kept with the utmost secrecy. The department at Washington brought charges before this Court for the reason that their efforts in the other States before the U. S. Grand Juries have been frustrated. The U. S. Marshal and deputies will leave this evening for New Orleans to arrest the President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and Directors of the Lottery Company. Indictments are for transmitting lottery advertisements through the mails in violation of the anti-lottery law passed by the last Congress. The extreme penalty is five years imprisonment and $5,000 fine.

A Texas Steer Creates a Panic.

Special to the Journal.

PITTSBURG, October 23.—A wild Texan steer escaped from the Herrs Island Stock Yards to-day, and for a time created a panic in the streets of Allegheny. The maddened animal traversed several of the prominent thoroughfares, attacking everything that came in its way, and compelling pedestrians to flee for their lives. Five persons were gored by the frenzied beast, one of them, a small boy, fatally. A party of citizens with guns and revolvers, finally killed it.

How Massena Rewarded Bravery.

Massena, when wounded, had his carriage, coachman and postilion at Wagram, where hundreds of men were killed near their carriage. A ball went through the coat of one of them, another ball killed one of the horses. The whole army admired their bravery, which was of the most voluntary sort, as they were not soldiers. The emperor said to Massena: "There are here 300,000 fighting on both sides. Well, would you know who are the bravest? They are your coachman and your postilion, as we are all here to do our duty, while they have no military obligations." The marshal had a very large fortune. He received 200,000 francs as commander of an army, 200,000 as Duc de Rivoli, 200,000 francs as Prince of Essling. Massena, however, waited two months without thinking of doing anything for these two men. One evening he was with his staff and announced that he would give to each 400 francs. Marbot imprudently asked, "Four hundred francs a year?" Massena was furious, and said, "Do you want to ruin me?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

Free Water.

Parties in Reno having good wells or a place for one are throwing away money in paying water rate, when by a small investment plenty of pure water is at their command free of cost. One good well will supply water for several families, who by joining in the expense of erecting a windmill, tank, etc., can not only effect a saving in expenses, but be independent of a monopolizing water service. A visit to the Water Company's reservoir and ditch at times will convince the most skeptical that well water is the doctor's enemy, while surface water is the direct agent in bringing business to his office.

Constant pumping insures pure water from all good wells, hence the quality of well water cannot be judged properly from only occasional pumpings. Many unused wells would furnish plenty of pure, clear water if properly pumped.

Can you afford a pumping plant of your own? We will answer for you, Yes.

We are prepared to take contracts this winter to erect any sized windmill plant required, with proper tank and service connection, furnishing them on a monthly installment plan, warranting all work and taking proper care of all wells so erected.

Plans and specifications free upon application. Anti-freezing pumps and protected pipes insure equally as good winter service as in summer. For further particulars call on Oct 24

Telepathy Is Universal.
With the suspicion has gradually strengthened until I have scarcely any doubt that the agency—telepathy—is truly universal. I find it certainly at work in the land of dreams, for one may dream of that which another person is doing, or has lately done or thought of, and commonplace instances of this are no more to be despised on that account than are the electric movements of a straw. Indeed, they are all the more valuable, as being further removed from the apparently supernatural.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Music From Insects.
The notes of the katydid are perhaps as familiar as any and have a certain fascination, the sounds taking on various inflections and meanings. They are produced by rubbing the inner surface of the hind legs against the outer surface of the front wings—fiddling, in fact. When the male cricket sings in the hearth it raises its fore wings and scrapes them against its hind ones. Even the butterfly makes a sound audible at some distance, certain species having been heard to utter a clicking sound.—St. Paul Dispatch.

This Pulley Weighs Seventy Tons.
A Willamette linen mill has a pulley that is said to be the second largest one in the world. Its weight is seventy tons, and its diameter twenty-eight feet. Three belts pass about the pulley, one of which is 49 inches wide, and the two others are twenty-four inches. The wheel makes sixty revolutions a minute. The shaft on which the pulley is hung weighs twenty-seven tons.—New York Sun.

Prolonging the Tomato season.
The fact that the tomato will ripen fairly after plucking enables the southern grower to market his crop in the far north. It also allows us here to prolong the season of the natives. Well grown but green fruit, picked before frost into shallow baskets or boxes, and kept in a dark, dry room, ripens gradually for the table and may thus be eaten, often until November or later.—Boston Transcript.

Peculiar
Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's." Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly. JOHNSON SIDES.

The Great Plute Peace Maker.

Johnson Sides, the well-known Plute sage and statesman, was born at the Sink of Carson near the present village of Stillwater, Churchill county. He does not know his age, as Plutes kept no record of births, but he remembers when a boy that Mormons settled at Genoa, Douglas county. His parents died when he was a child and he was raised by Mrs. Sides, the mother of Richard Sides, who was one of the original locators of the Sides mine on the Comstock.

From a photograph by Swisher & Bender.

Johnson's brother, Captain Charley, was a scout in the service of the United States and served with the military at Fort Churchill under Colonel McDermitt. Johnson has always been a friend of the whites. He acts as interpreter between the Indians and Government agents and was instrumental in negotiating a treaty recently by the terms of which the Plutes, in consideration of $20,000 worth of cattle, cede a portion of Pyramid reservation to the Government.

During the Messiah craze Johnson Sides acted as peace maker and did much to keep the Indians, among whom he is a recognized leader, from committing depredations when excited by the promises of the Messiah that all Indians would come to life again and drive all intruders from the country. For the last dozen years he has been a resident of Reno, and his services as a mediator between his own tribe and the Washoes are frequently in demand. He would like to have the Government give him a piece of land near Reno which he could cultivate and on which he could make a home for himself and his family.

SARAH WINNEMUCCA.

The Plute Princess Dies in Montana.

Captain C. C. Warner, United States Indian Agent for Nevada has received a dispatch from Monida, Montana, informing him of the death of Sarah Winnemucca, the Plute Princess, which occurred on the 16th instant. Sarah was visiting her sister, who is married to a white man, at the time of her death.

The Plute Princess was a remarkable woman. When a child she was taken by her grandfather, Captain Truckee, who piloted John C. Fremont across the Sierra Nevada to San Jose, California. She attended the Sisters' school at Mission, San Jose, and acquired a fair knowledge of the English language. Subsequently she returned to her tribe and acted as interpreter when General George Crook made peace with the northern Plutes, and made arrangements by which a reservation was established for the Plutes and Weisars at Malheur Lake, Oregon. She accompanied General O. O. Howard on his expedition against the Bannocks in 1878, and afterwards went East, and under the auspices of Miss Elizabeth Peabody, lectured through New England and published "Life Among the Plutes," a volume of two or three hundred pages. She taught an Indian school at Lovelocks which was supported by Miss Peabody and other Eastern philanthropists.

About twenty years ago she married Lieutenant Bartlett, who was stationed at Fort McDermitt and went with him to Wyoming. He was dismissed from the service, and Sarah returned West. Afterward she married a soldier named Hopkins, who accompanied her on her lecturing tour through the East and spent all the money she made. He was a well-educated, handsome young man and an inveterate gambler. He died some years ago, and since then, until her recent visit to Montana, Sarah lived with her tribe on a ranch near Lovelocks given her and her brother Naches by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Winnemucca Rebuilding.

The burnt district in Winnemucca which comprised three blocks, is being partially rebuilt. Chris Diehl is erecting a two-story frame building, which is a much larger and more pretentious structure than that which was burned. The Masonic building, of which only the brick walls were left by the fire, has been purchased by LaGrave & Nixon and is being roofed and fitted for stores and offices. Fellows and Hotman are building a fine brick on the site of their frame buildings. Uncle George Walker, has completed a better building than that which was burned, and so has John Schmidt. The walls of Levy & Co's store and furniture warehouse remain, but so far nothing has been done to rebuild them. Of the several residences destroyed none are yet being rebuilt, but it is the general opinion that the whole burnt district will be rebuilt within a year.

Fire at Truckee.

A fire consumed the residence of H. K. Silvey and K. Weber on Keizer avenue yesterday afternoon. Silvey's loss is $1,200, insurance $850. Weber's loss $1,100, insurance $500. A strong wind was blowing and for some moments the entire northern part of the town was in imminent danger.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address, F. J. # THE ELDER BOOTH AND THE LITTLE BOAT

How the Tragedian Saved His Life and Made a Friend
One night in Louisville a number of people called on Edwin Booth, among them a doctor of local celebrity, who wanted to place in his hands a valuable relic that had once belonged to the elder Booth. He was shown upstairs by a little darky, who carried something wrapped up in a newspaper. It proved to be a well preserved skull, thoroughly cleaned and the parts joined by springs and hooks.

The doctor told us this story of the skull, which proved romantic and interesting: Many years before Ted's visit the elder Booth had played an engagement in Natchez. After the closing performance he was taken down to the river with his trunk to wait for the upcoming steamboat. He found at the saloon at the wharf a rough looking set of men who by their talk he decided were thieves and outthroats.

Booth had $1,000 in his money belt, and from motives of policy he invited the ruffians to take several drinks, which only served to increase their peculiar looks in his direction. There was no help near and escape was out of the question—he would probably have been followed and murdered.

Selecting the roughest and toughest man in the crowd, old Booth called him outside to say a few words. "Look here," said he, "my name is Booth; I'm an actor; you may have heard of me. I've a thousand dollars here in a belt and I'm afraid of being robbed. I want you to take it and keep it safe for me until the boat comes along."

The fellow looked earnestly at the old man, and then reached out for the belt. Booth never expected to see a dollar of the money again, but was glad to insure his personal safety. He slept on a table in the saloon, and was awakened early by the custodian of his treasure.

"Get up," said he, "here's your money. The boat's in sight." Booth was thoroughly surprised, but of course delighted. "What's your name?" he asked; "I always like to remember an honest man's name." The fellow hesitated, lowered his voice and answered, "It's Morrill; folks call me the chief of the river pirates. You trusted me and I appreciated the trust."

A year later Morrill was sentenced to the penitentiary for life. When Booth visited Natchez again he visited the prison and took Morrill some money and delicacies. At the last of his visits he found the man dying of consumption. "Booth," said he, "I've not long to live; I should die happy if I had something to leave you to remember me by. You have been good to me and I cannot repay you." Booth laughed and said, "If you are set on leaving me a legacy, let it be your head."

He spoke in jest, but the pirate took it in earnest, and on his death it was found that he had willed the tragedian his skull. Booth gave it to the doctor in Louisville to put in order, but dying himself soon after never claimed his bequest. The physician gave it to Ted. We used it for Yorick's skull in "Hamlet."

When on a visit to his mother in Baltimore, she unpacked Ted's trunk while he was out, and came across the skull. Not knowing what it was used for, she decided to get rid of it with some other rubbish. So when Ted came in she told him how she had thrown that nasty skull out of the window, and that a coal cart, passing by, had crushed it into a hundred pieces.—Interview in New York Epoch.

SOME FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS.

Walpole, the prime minister of the Georges, is misquoted in the expression, "All men have their price." He never said so, and entertained no such narrow views of mankind. He was referring to certain persons, and said, "All these men have their price." "Money is the root of all evil" is another misquoted quotation, and a wide deviation from the truth. "The love of money is the root of all evil" is the correct quotation. "Love me little, love me long" is a household phrase sometimes supposed to have originated with Charles Reade, because he wrote a novel by that name. Those who are familiar with the poets know that the expression originated with Christopher Marlowe, and is found in his "Jew of Malta." It was after ward given a new impetus by Robert Herrick.—Philadelphia Ledger

Teddy Was Surprised.
Teddy, a little three year-old, was one day following his father about the farm, when he saw a terrapin for the first time.

"Oh, papa," he called, "come and help me catch the bug with a shell on his back."

"Just cut his head off," his father replied, "and you have him."

Teddy excitedly hammered away, but the terrapin, under the manner of his kind, scenting danger near, drew in his head.

"Well, is his head off?" asked his father.

"Oh, no," cried the astonished little fellow; "he has swallowed his head!"—Springfield Homestead.

Diphtheria Taken from a Kitten.
P. C. Coleman, of Colorado, Tex., states that after a residence of five years at Colorado he saw the first case of diphtheria. A child of four years, living thirty miles distant in the country, and with no neighbor within six miles, had diphtheria, followed by paralysis. The child was far away from any source of human contagion and had rarely seen other children. The father stated that two kittens had recently died from what seemed to be the same disease, and the child had frequently kissed them. Dr. Coleman does not doubt that the diphtheria was contracted from them.—Dr. J. Lewis Smith in Babyhood.

Timely Tunes.
"That was an appropriate bit of music they had at the cattlemen's annual dinner."

"What was it?"

"The band played Beethoven's 'Concerto in G.'"—Harper's Bazar.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.
